

UNIVERSITÉ
DE GENÈVE

NYU
上海

SHANGHAI
纽约大学

Social Science
世界史(社会科学)

上海國際問題研究院
SHANGHAI INSTITUTES FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

Workshop on Development Finance and Global Economic Governance

A collaborative field-building workshop bringing together scholars and policy researchers.

Saturday, May 30, 2026

Room N202 | NYU Shanghai New Bund Campus
567 West Yangsi Road, Pudong New District, Shanghai

PROGRAM HIGHLIGHTS

Morning
Coffee Chat

Perspectives from Local & Policy
Communities

Emerging
Research Agendas

Field-Building
Conversations

Cross-Field
Perspectives

Collaboration &
Future Agenda

Closing
Reflection

Agenda at a Glance

Time	Session	Purpose
8:45–9:30	Morning Coffee Chat	Informal cross-group familiarization before the formal program
9:30–9:45	Welcome and Workshop Framing	Set expectations for a dialogue-based, non-conventional workshop
9:45–10:35	Session 1: Perspectives from Local and Policy Communities	Surface alternative framings, blind spots, and policy-facing perspectives
10:35–11:00	Morning Coffee Break	Informal exchange and transition
11:00–12:30	Session 2: Emerging Research Agendas	Share work in progress and identify areas of cross-fertilization
12:30–14:00	Group Photo + Lunch Break + Optional Campus Tour	Lunch and informal conversation, with a short optional campus tour near the end
14:00–14:40	Session 3: Field-Building Conversations	Explore how journals and shared infrastructure can support future research conversations.
14:40–15:10	Afternoon Coffee Break	Longer informal exchange and reset
15:10–16:25	Session 4: Cross-Field Perspectives Roundtable	Big-picture reflection across subfields
16:25–17:20	Session 5: Collaboration and Future Agenda Roundtable	Identify possible follow-up directions
17:20–18:00	Closing Reflection	Synthesize takeaways, allow broader participation, and identify next steps
18:00	Workshop Dinner (nearby location)	Continue exchange and conversation

Detailed Session Roles

Session	Time	Role / Format	Session Openers
Session 1: Perspectives from Local and Policy Communities	9:45–10:35	Discussion openers, up to 4 minutes each	Hongsong Liu; Le Yao; Sujeong Shim; Keyi Tang
Session 2: Emerging Research Agendas	11:00–12:30	Lightning presenters, up to 5 minutes each	Yulin Chen; Nicolas Bau; Lu Jiang; Alicia Chen; Yixin Sun; Jesslene Lee; Xiaoyuan Li; Soohyun Cho; Yue Xu
Session 3: Field-Building Conversations	14:00–14:40	Featured remarks and short demo, up to 10 minutes each, with brief discussion	Soo Yeon Kim; Jing Qian
Session 4: Cross-Field Perspectives Roundtable	15:10–16:25	Roundtable speakers, up to 6 minutes each	Zheng Chen; Songying Fang; Meibo Huang; Byungwon Woo; Jiejing Zhu; Jianzhi Zhao
Session 5: Collaboration and Future Agenda Roundtable	16:25–17:20	Synthesis speakers, up to 4 minutes each	Songying Fang; Meibo Huang; Simone Dietrich; Soo Yeon Kim; Yu Ye; Lucie Lu

List of Participants

No.	Name	Position	Affiliation
1	Nicolas Bau	PhD Candidate	University of Geneva
2	Alicia Chen	PhD Candidate	Stanford University
3	Yulin Chen / 陈愉霖	PhD Candidate	Fudan University / 复旦大学
4	Zheng Chen / 陈拯	Professor	Fudan University / 复旦大学
5	Chaochao Cheng / 成超超	PhD Student	Shanghai University of International Business and Economics / 上海对外经贸大学
6	Soohyun Cho	Assistant Professor	Bowdoin College
7	Simone Dietrich	Associate Professor	University of Geneva
8	Songying Fang / 方松英	Professor	Shanghai Jiao Tong University / 上海交通大学
9	Meibo Huang / 黄梅波	Director and Professor	International Development Cooperation Academy, Shanghai University of International Business and Economics / 上海对外经贸大学国际发展合作研究院
10	Lu Jiang / 姜璐	Assistant Research Fellow	International Development Cooperation Academy, Shanghai University of International Business and Economics / 上海对外经贸大学国际发展合作研究院
11	Soo Yeon Kim	Associate Professor	University of British Columbia
12	Jesslene Lee	PhD Candidate	University of Toronto
13	Xiaoyuan Li / 栗潇远	Assistant Professor	Tongji University / 同济大学
14	Hongsong Liu / 刘宏松	Professor	Shanghai Jiao Tong University / 上海交通大学
15	Lucie Lu / 陆璐	Assistant Professor	St. Mary's University / North Carolina State University

No.	Name	Position	Affiliation
16	Jing Qian / 钱璟	Assistant Professor	NYU Shanghai
17	Sujeong Shim	Assistant Professor	NYU Abu Dhabi
18	Yixin Sun / 孙奕欣	Assistant Research Fellow	Shanghai Academy of Social Sciences, Institute of International Relations / 上海社会科学院国际问题研究所
19	Keyi Tang / 汤可依	Assistant Professor	ESADE Business School
20	Xinyue Wu / 吴昕玥	PhD Student	Shanghai University of International Business and Economics / 上海对外经贸大学
21	Byungwon Woo	Professor	Yonsei University
22	Yue Xu / 徐悦	Assistant Professor	University of Shanghai for Science and Technology / 上海理工大学
23	Le Yao / 姚乐	Research Fellow	Shanghai Institutes for International Studies / 上海国际问题研究院
24	Yu Ye / 叶玉	Associate Researcher	Shanghai Institutes for International Studies / 上海国际问题研究院
25	Lingrong Ying / 应玲蓉	PhD Candidate	Shanghai University of International Business and Economics / 上海对外经贸大学
26	Jianzhi Zhao / 赵剑治	Associate Professor	University of Exeter
27	Jiejing Zhu / 朱杰进	Professor	Fudan University / 复旦大学

Detailed Session Notes

Session 1: Perspectives from Local and Policy Communities

Time: 9:45–10:35

Format: Four short opening reflections (4 minutes), followed by full-room discussion

- Hongsong Liu: Chinese Solutions for Development Finance
- Le Yao: International Development Cooperation for Green Transition: from a policy-oriented perspective
- Sujeong Shim: Rethinking Authoritarianism in the Study of China's Global Governance
- Keyi Tang: Studying China from Everywhere Else: Fieldwork Inside and Outside the Mainland China

This session opens the substantive workshop by creating an initial exchange across two key boundaries: local and international perspectives, and academic and policy-oriented approaches. Rather than formal paper presentations, the openers will offer brief reflections on how different communities frame similar questions in development finance, international institutions, and global economic governance.

The goal is to identify where these perspectives converge, where they differ, and how the workshop can use those differences productively throughout the day.

Possible guiding questions:

- What can international scholars learn from China-based and local policy debates?
- What can local and policy-oriented researchers gain from international academic debates?
- Where do academic and policy perspectives ask different questions about similar issues?
- What assumptions travel poorly across local/international or academic/policy communities?
- What kinds of future exchange would make these communities speak to each other more effectively?

Session 2: Emerging Research Agendas

Time: 11:00–12:30

Format: Three mini-sessions, each with three lightning presentations (5 minutes) followed by discussion

This session gives participants an opportunity to briefly introduce ongoing research and identify areas of possible cross-fertilization. The emphasis is not on full paper presentation, but on sharing core questions, evidence, methods, and areas where feedback or collaboration would be useful.

Proposed structure:

Time	Mini-session	Openers
11:00–11:30	Mini-session 1	Yulin Chen; Nicolas Bau; Lu Jiang
11:30–12:00	Mini-session 2	Alicia Chen; Yixin Sun; Jesslene Lee
12:00–12:30	Mini-session 3	Xiaoyuan Li; Soohyun Cho; Yue Xu

Each mini-session will include 3 short presentations, up to 5 minutes each, followed by approximately 15 minutes of discussion and a brief transition.

Possible guiding questions:

- What is the central question or puzzle motivating the project?
- What evidence, data, case material, or methods does the project use?
- What kind of feedback would be most useful at this stage?
- Where might the project benefit from local/international or academic/policy exchange?
- Are there possible connections across projects that could lead to future collaboration?

Mini-session 1

- Yulin Chen: Distribution of Chinese Developmental Finance: Analysis from Diplomatic Annals and High-level Visits
- Nicolas Bau: Beyond Public Shareholders: How Ownership Privatization Affects Investment Decision-Making in National Development Finance Institutions
- Lu Jiang: Beyond Mobilising Private Capital: Quasi-Blended Finance in China's Overseas Development Finance

Mini-session 2

- Alicia Chen: Electoral Incentives and the Choice of Infrastructure Development Aid
- Yixin Sun: Parallel Institutions as Outside Options: The Impact of AIIB Membership on the World Bank Loan Conditionality
- Jesslene Lee: The Influence of Firms in International Organisations

Mini-session 3

- Xiaoyuan Li: The Security-Development Nexus: U.S. Arms Transfer and Development Capacity Changing of the Global South
- Soohyun Cho: Selective Compliance, Strategic Response: The Political Economy of Private ESG Governance
- Yue Xu: The Divergent Diffusion of Financial Regulatory Sandboxes: A Comparison of Japan, Korea, and Singapore

Session 3: Field-Building Conversations

Time: 14:00–14:40

Format: Featured remarks and short demo, followed by brief full-room discussion

Speakers: Soo Yeon Kim; Jing Qian

This session focuses on how journals, research platforms, and shared infrastructure can support future conversations in development finance and global economic governance. Soo Yeon Kim will introduce Pacific Affairs and share reflections from an editorial and field-building perspective. Jing Qian will give a short demonstration of AIIB Monitor, a research platform currently under development.

Rather than serving as a formal paper session, this session is intended to introduce concrete platforms through which research communities can circulate ideas, build shared agendas, and reach broader scholarly and policy audiences. The remaining time will be devoted to brief full-room discussion.

Possible guiding questions:

- How can journals and research platforms help shape emerging research conversations?
- What kinds of research questions, data, or evidence are especially useful for building dialogue across communities?
- How can scholars make their work more visible and useful to broader academic and policy audiences?
- What kinds of shared infrastructure could support future collaboration?
- How might participants use or contribute to platforms such as journals, datasets, research websites, or collaborative networks?

Session 4: Cross-Field Perspectives Roundtable

Time: 15:10–16:25

Format: Short roundtable reflections (6 minutes) followed by full-room discussion

This session brings together scholars working across different fields, methods, and intellectual traditions. Rather than presenting full papers, speakers are invited to share one concrete finding, puzzle, or argument from their current research agenda and explain how it may speak to adjacent fields.

The goal is to create a cross-field conversation that connects themes emerging from earlier sessions and helps identify larger questions for future research and exchange.

Possible guiding questions:

- What broad changes should scholars pay closer attention to?
- How do different fields or research communities frame similar problems differently?
- Which concepts, assumptions, or categories may need to be rethought?
- Where are the most promising opportunities for cross-field dialogue?
- What kinds of evidence, methods, or cases could help connect currently separate research conversations?

Session 5: Collaboration and Future Agenda Roundtable

Time: 16:25–17:20

Format: Short synthesis reflections (4 minutes) followed by full-room discussion

This session moves from exchange to possible follow-up. Rather than introducing new research, speakers are invited to reflect on the conversations throughout the day and identify promising directions for continued engagement.

The goal is not to force concrete commitments, but to surface possible paths for future collaboration, including research projects, data conversations, policy engagement, follow-up workshops, conference panels, special issues, or institutional visits.

Possible guiding questions:

- What is one conversation from today that should continue?
- Where do you see the strongest potential for future collaboration?
- What kinds of data, access, or expertise could be usefully shared?
- What formats would be most productive for future exchange?
- What would make this network useful beyond a one-day workshop?

Closing Reflection

Time: 17:20–18:00

Format: Full-room reflection and closing remarks

This final segment gives participants a chance to synthesize the day's conversations and identify concrete takeaways. Unlike Session 5, which focuses on future collaboration, the closing reflection is meant to be broader and more inclusive, allowing participants who did not serve as speakers or commentators to share brief thoughts.

The goal is to end the workshop with a shared sense of what was learned, what remains unresolved, and what conversations should continue.

Possible reflection prompts:

- What is one idea from today that you will continue thinking about?
- What is one perspective you heard that changed or complicated your view?
- What is one unresolved question worth carrying forward?
- Who would you like to continue the conversation with after the workshop?
- What is one practical next step that could help sustain this network?

Participant Profiles

Nicolas Bau is a PhD Candidate in the Department of Political Science and International Relations at the University of Geneva, Switzerland. His research interests include international cooperation and international political economy, with a focus on international finance, international organizations, and firm behavior. His dissertation studies the political economy of private sector development finance. During the academic year 2025-26, he was a visiting researcher at Princeton University. He previously worked at the OECD Development Cooperation Directorate and graduated from Sciences Po with a MA in Political Science.

Alicia R. Chen is a Ph.D. candidate in the Department of Political Science at Stanford University. She studies international relations and political economy, with a focus on China's international aid and finance. Prior to doctoral studies, Chen was a Research Specialist with the Empirical Studies of Conflict (ESOC) project at Princeton University. She holds an M.A. in International Policy from Stanford University and a B.A. in Political Science from the University of Southern California.

Yulin Chen (陈愉霖) is a Ph.D. candidate of international politics at School of International Relations and Public Affairs, Fudan University. His research covers development finance and China's foreign economic engagement, with a special interest on how sovereign donors deliver concessional funds through bilateral as well as multilateral channels. He obtained his Bachelor of Arts from Fudan University in 2020 and Master of Arts from Johns Hopkins University in 2022. He has co-authored an article in Review of International Organizations, and a book chapter in China and the global aid architecture: Understanding China's evolving development assistance.

Zheng Chen (陈拯) is a Professor in the School of International Relations and Public Affairs (SIRPA) at Fudan University. He holds a Ph.D. in Law from Peking University (2011) and a Ph.D. in Political Science from Waseda University (2016). He was Oxford-Princeton Global Leaders Fellow (2016-2018). He teaches international security and global governance at Fudan, while his research interests are the evolution of international institutions/norms, Chinese diplomacy and East Asian international history. He has published three books (in Chinese) and more than 40 articles in journals like International Affairs, Chinese Journal of International Politics and Social Science in China.

Chaochao Cheng (成超超) is a PhD student in International Development Cooperation at Shanghai University of International Business and Economics. His research focuses on China-Africa development cooperation, development finance, and global governance.

Soohyun Cho is an Assistant Professor of Government and Legal Studies at Bowdoin College and was previously a Postdoctoral Research Fellow at Princeton University's Niehaus Center for Globalization and Governance. She received her Ph.D. in Political Science from Ohio State University in 2023, and her B.A. and M.A. from Seoul National University. Her research examines the political economy of globalization, including trade, foreign aid, and how firms navigate global supply chains and adopt international environmental and labor standards. She studies how economic integration shapes domestic politics and firm behavior, using causal inference, survey experiments, and firm-level data.

Simone Dietrich is Professor of Political Science and International Relations at the University of Geneva, where she directs the Master's programme in Political Science. Her research examines how governments, development agencies, and international institutions design and deliver foreign aid and development finance, with a focus on how political incentives and organizational structures shape development outcomes. She is the author of the award-winning book States, Markets, and Foreign Aid and has published widely on aid effectiveness, donor decision-making, democracy assistance, development finance institutions, and co-financing. Her work engages both academic and policy audiences, with a strong focus on evidence-based development cooperation.

Songying Fang (方松英) is a Professor of Political Science at the School of International and Public Affairs, Shanghai Jiao Tong University. Her research encompasses global governance, territorial disputes, military alliances, great power competition, and public opinion on foreign policy.

Meibo Huang (黄梅波), Ph.D. in Economics, is the Dean of International Development and Cooperation Academy (IDCA) at Shanghai University of International Business and Economics (SUIBE). She concurrently serves as the Executive Director of the China Society of World Economics, Vice President of the Shanghai Society of World Economics, and Vice President of the Chinese Society of African Studies. Professor Huang's primary research interests include International Development Assistance, International Development Finance and African Debt, and China-Africa Aid-Trade-Investment Relations. To date, she has published over 100 papers and 20 books, and has led numerous national and provincial-level research projects, winning multiple awards for outstanding achievements.

Lu Jiang (姜璐) is an Assistant Research Fellow at the Institute of International Development, Shanghai University of International Business and Economics, and an Adjunct Research Fellow at the Fudan Development Institute. She received her PhD in International Relations from the London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE) and was a postdoctoral fellow at Fudan University. Her research focuses on African political economy, China–Africa relations, and international development cooperation and financing. Between 2013 and 2026, she conducted in-depth fieldwork in Mozambique, South Africa, Ethiopia, and Morocco. She is the author of Beyond Official Development Cooperation: Chinese Development Cooperation and African Agriculture (Palgrave Macmillan, 2020), and has published articles in reputable Chinese and international journals.

Soo Yeon Kim is Associate Professor, School of Public Policy and Global Affairs (SPPGA), Editor of Pacific Affairs, and the Korea Foundation Chair at the University of British Columbia. Her research area is international political economy with a specialization in trade politics. Her current projects include the politics of trade agreements, rising powers and global economic governance, and regional integration in Asia. Her teaching areas include International Political Economy, in particular the Politics of Trade, IPE of Asia, and Emerging Markets; and Research Methods, including Research Design and Quantitative Methods.

Jesslene Lee is a PhD candidate in the Department of Political Science at the University of Toronto. Her research area is international political economy, with a focus on international institutions and environmental governance. Her dissertation examines the influence of firms within international organizations, specifically in shaping environmental standards implemented in projects funded by the World Bank. Her ongoing research examines the impact of the AIIB on the development finance regime and the diffusion of regulatory provisions across international agreements.

Li Xiaoyuan (栗潇远) is an Assistant Professor in School of Political Science and International Relations and a research fellow at China's Strategic Studies, Tongji University. He received his Ph.D. in political science from School of International Relations and Public Affairs (SIRPA) of Fudan University in 2022. His research interests include international development, comparative political economy and state-building of the Global South, which has appeared in Journal of Conflict Resolution, World Economics and Politics [in Chinese] and Comparative Politics Studies [in Chinese], etc. He is currently leading a project funded by the National Office for Philosophy and Social Sciences of China (Youth Project) titled "Rent Distribution and Growth Dynamics of Modernization in the Global South".

Hongsong Liu (刘宏松) is a Professor in the School of International and Public Affairs at Shanghai Jiao Tong University. His research is primarily focused on global governance, international organizations, EU foreign policy and Chinese foreign policy. His publications have appeared in international peer-reviewed journals such as International Affairs, International Relations, Journal of European Integration, Japanese Journal of Political Science, Pacific Review, Mediterranean Politics, Structural Change and Economic Dynamics, Asian Perspective, Comparative European Politics, Policing, International Journal of Conflict and Violence and Journal of Balkan and Near Eastern Studies. He co-edited Making Sense of the European Union: Chinese Representations (Palgrave Macmillan, 2024). He is the author of China's New Role in Global Governance: Shaping the Rules (Routledge, forthcoming).

Lucie Lu (陆璐) is an incoming Assistant Professor in the Department of Political Science at North Carolina State University. Previously, she was an Assistant Professor in the Department of International Studies and Global Affairs at St. Mary's University in San Antonio, Texas. She was a Postdoctoral Research Fellow at the Center on Contemporary China at Princeton University from 2024 to 2025 and at the Columbia-Harvard China and the World Program at Columbia University from 2023 to 2024. She received her Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign in 2023. Her research interests include Chinese foreign aid, global governance, human rights, political communication, and public opinion.

Jing Qian (钱璟) is Assistant Professor of Political Science at NYU Shanghai, with affiliations to the Center for Global Asia and the NYU Sovereign Debt Network. He holds a Ph.D. in Politics from Princeton University, where he also served as a Postgraduate Research Associate and Lecturer, and B.A. and M.A. degrees from Fudan University. His research focuses on international economic governance, with particular attention to multilateral development finance and international tax avoidance. His work has appeared in International Organization, Review of International Political Economy, and Public Administration.

Sujeong Shim is Assistant Professor of Political Science at New York University Abu Dhabi. She studies international organizations and international political economy, focusing on international financial institutions, rising powers, and public opinion. Her forthcoming book with Cambridge University Press examines how public opinion in borrowing countries shapes governments' interactions with the IMF and private investors, influencing global financial outcomes. Her broader research explores how international organizations navigate shifting global power dynamics. Her work has been published in Comparative Political Studies, International Studies Quarterly, and Review of International Organizations. She received her PhD in Political Science from the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Yixin Sun (孙奕欣) is an Assistant Research Fellow of Institute of International Relations at Shanghai Academy of Social Sciences. Her research interests span International Organizations (Multilateral Development Banks), International Financial Governance (Digital Currency) and Japanese studies.

Keyi Tang (汤可依) is an Assistant Professor at ESADE Business School in Barcelona. Her research sits at the intersection of international and comparative political economy of development, with a regional focus on Africa and China. Part of her recently published Cambridge University Press book, Power Over Progress, won the 2024 Best Graduate Student Paper Award from the International Political Economy Section of the International Studies Association. Her other scholarly work has appeared in journals including Review of International Political Economy, Energy Economics, and Energy Policy, and her commentary has been featured in outlets such as The China-Global South Project and the South China Morning Post.

Byungwon Woo is Professor of International Relations in the Department of Political Science & International Studies and Director of the Institute of East & West Studies at Yonsei University. He received his Ph.D. from the Ohio State University in 2010 and has mainly researched on the political economy of international institutions, economic statecraft, and human rights. His work has been published in leading academic journals, including American Journal of Political Science, International Interactions, International Studies Quarterly, Journal of Peace Research, Political Studies, and Review of International Organizations. He currently serves as Associate Editor of International Studies Quarterly and as Editor-in-Chief of Public Diplomacy.

Xinyue Wu (吴昕玥) is a first-year doctoral student at Shanghai University of International Business and Economics. Her research focuses include climate financing, international development assistance, sovereign debt, and debt sustainability.

Yue Xu (徐悦) is an Assistant Professor at the University of Shanghai for Science and Technology. Her research focuses on international institutions and China's participation in global governance. Her work has appeared in journals such as Asian Perspective, Japanese Journal of Political Science, and Mediterranean Politics. She is currently leading a research project funded by the Shanghai Municipal Government on AI governance.

YAO Le (姚乐) is a Research Fellow of the Institute for Global Governance Studies and the Center for African Studies at the Shanghai Institutes for International Studies (SIIS). She gained her PhD (Diplomacy) and BA (International Politics) from the School of International Relations and Public Affairs (SIRPA), Fudan University. She was involved in the Sciences Po (Paris)-Fudan Dual-degree Master Programme and gained an MA in European Affairs. Her research focuses on China-EU-Africa relations, international cooperation on green transition and sustainable development, etc.

Yu Ye (叶玉) is a Senior Research Fellow and Deputy Director at the Institute for World Economy Studies, Shanghai Institutes for International Studies, and is affiliated with its Center for South Asian Studies. Her research focuses on global economic governance and China's role in the world economy, particularly international development finance, debt governance, and multilateral development banks. She has led projects commissioned by the Chinese National Social Science Fund, the Ministry of Finance, and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and has authored two monographs and numerous papers and commentaries in Chinese and English. She coordinates the SIIS-CSIS "China-U.S. Dialogue on the Global Economic Order" project. She holds a Ph.D. in International Economic Law from Fudan University and has been a visiting scholar at Yale University, CSIS, the University of Dundee, and the Lowy Institute.

Lingrong Ying (应玲蓉) is a PhD candidate at Shanghai University of International Business and Economics, researching Eurobond markets and sovereign debt crises in the Global South. Her work sits at the intersection of development finance and sovereign debt governance.

Jianzhi Zhao (赵剑治) is Reader in Global Development and Public Policy at the University of Exeter. His research covers global development, global governance, public policy, and international political economy, with a focus on multilateral development banks, international organizations, NGOs, and foreign aid and development finance. He has worked with the World Bank, Asian Development Bank, and Inter-American Development Bank, and consulted with UNIDO, Gates Foundation-funded projects, and GIZ. He has been a visiting researcher at the Bank of Finland and a summer Ph.D. researcher at the People's Bank of China. His work appears in journals including International Organization, Review of International Political Economy, Public Administration, and Nonprofit and Voluntary Sector Quarterly. He was a Shorenstein Postdoctoral Fellow at Stanford University and received his Ph.D. from the University of Maryland, College Park.

Jiejing Zhu (朱杰进) is a professor at the School of International Relations and Public Affairs and the deputy director of the Centre for UN and International Organizations Studies at Fudan University. His research interests are international organizations, global governance, international political economy, UN, BRICS and G20 etc. He has published 5 books and over 80 papers in academic journals, including the Pacific Review, Global Policy, International Organizations Research Journal, World Economics and Politics (in Chinese), Foreign Affairs Review (in Chinese) among others. Currently, he is doing research on China's Rise and Global Governance Reform.

Directions

Workshop Venue

Room N202, NYU Shanghai New Bund Campus

567 West Yangsi Road, Pudong New District, Shanghai, China

Please enter through the West Gate Visitor Center

北楼202教室, 上海纽约大学前滩校区(上海市浦东新区杨思西路567号)

Contact

Workshop Convener:

- Jing Qian
- Cell/Wechat: 136-5178-4347; Backup Cell: 133-0165-1632
- Email: jingqian@nyu.edu

Student Assistants:

- Ling Seiy Lin Gift (Lin): gl3029@nyu.edu; Cell/WeChat: 13175110925
- Kassidy Sacley (Kassidy): ks7595@nyu.edu; WeChat ID: kassidysacley